"Bobby Simha to play a cameo in Rakshit Shetty's Kannada film 777 Charlie". He is electrifying especially in the first half, where he brings out the viciousness and violent streak of the character along with that eerie laughter.[19] His performance in the film earned him the National Film Award for Best Supporting Actor.[20] After Jigarthanda he played a lead role in the Malayalam film Beware of Dogs.[21] while in Aadama Jaichomada he played Bhoominathan, a "serious, intelligent cop but with a comic touch".[22] The success of Jigarthanda had created opportunities for Bobby Simha to become a lead actor, though several of his subsequent films did not perform well commercially.[23] In December 2015, he appeared in Urumeen, his first film as a solo action hero. He subsequently became acquainted with short-film maker Manikandan, who introduced him to his friend, another short-film maker Karthik Subbaraj.[6] The pair subsequently made a series of short films together, with Subbaraj giving Simha a role in his directorial debut Pizza, too.[7] Balaji Mohan, who too was short-film maker, gave Simha a small role in his first feature film, Kadhalil Sodhappuvadhu Yeppadi. Archived from the original on 19 May 2017. To tan his skin, he stood in the sun at noon wearing only his shorts.[15] The film opened to positive reviews in August 2014.[16] with The Hindu writing that it had achieved "cult status" within a week of its release.[17] Simha won positive reviews for his depiction of Sethu, with Rediff.com noting that Simha "steals the show. ^ "Bobby Simha-Reshmi Menon's engagement held on Sunday".
