1) Gordon Allport's Trait Theory

- Gordon Allport categorized traits into three levels:

A. Cardinal Traits:
 - Dominate an individual's whole life.
 - The person becomes known specifically for these traits.
 - People with such personalities often become so known for these traits.
 - e.g.: hatred may have been a cardinal trait of Hitler.

B. Central Traits:
 - The general characteristics that form the basic foundations of personality.
 - While not as dominating as cardinal traits, are the major characteristics you might use to describe another person.
 - E.g.: intelligent, honest, shy and anxious are considered central traits.
- C. Secondary Traits:
 - Traits that often appear only in certain situations or under specific circumstances.
 - E.g.: getting anxious when speaking to a group or impatient while waiting in line.
