Enthusiast to be first time parents, discuss names, coral expressing his predilection for "Nemo". They played playfully with each other until Coral's attention is distracted from the appearance of a barracuda. Ignoring the order of Marlin to hide, coral moves to protect his eggs and the lunges Barracuda. Marlin rushes into but the barracuda hits him with a tail, sending him back into anemone. When he arrives at that night, he discovers that coral and eggs went, but he can find a single surviving egg with a scratch on the right side. Juring to protect him, he calls Nemo codling. Marlin raises Nemo in an anemone for sure more in the coral reef. The morning of his first day of school, an excited nemo wakes up his father, slamming the little one to the right far savage. Marlin helps to prepare for the day, demonstrating Hyperprotective and doubtful of the capacity of Nemo to take care of himself. Marlin accompanies Nemo at school - along the way, Nemo asks Marlin how old the marine turtles live to be; Marlin does not have an answer. Mr. Ray, the local teacher, brings children on a trip. When Marlin learns that they are going to the drop-off, he swims after them panicked. Upon arrival upon arrival, He follows three of his peers, bored with Mr. Ray's lesson, up to the limit of the coral reef where they see a motorboat (indicating a "calcium") anchored in the distance. It follows each other to swim in open water to touch the ass while Marlin arrives and screams to Nemo to endanger himself. While talking to Mr. Ray, Marlin not noticed Nemo who swims fiercely towards the sea, stopping under the boat. In an act of challenge, Nemo touches the boat with his fin and start swimming. Moments later, a diver appears behind him while the three peers scream. Nemo asks for help, so Marlin tries to save him. However, a second diver stops son son. Because Mr. Ray indicates to three equal to take the cover, one of the Nemo capture divers using a pocket network. The other underwater shoots a photo of Marlin. Recovering the view of him, Marlin swims after divers while the boat starts the coral reef. The diver places Nemo in a cooler full of water and accidentally drops its mask into the water. Marlin swims after the boat but at the end he loses the track. He swims towards the bottom of the sea, imploring fish schools passing to ask for help until he reaches a blue thong named Dory. He declares to have seen the boat and leads a grateful marlin in the direction he went, while swimming, he becomes laxant and even tries to evade Marlin when he notes him behind her. When you face it, he questions him and then said that she has a short-term book loss. Dumbfundund, Marlin turns to leave but is stopped by a large white shark that looks like Bruce. He invites Marlin and Dory to a meeting that he is having and, despite the objections of Marlin, accompanies them to his den in a sinked submarine surrounded by live sea mines. They meet the other bruce sharks, hammer anchoring and Mako, before starting an assembly in which they commit themselves to abstain from eating fish. When Marlin Spot the mask of the underwater blocked on a fragment of metal, he discovers the signs on the belt that could provide a clue to where it is. Dory collects the mask to see if the sharks can read, but Marlin tries to take it back, engaging in a shooting shooting before the mask snapped into Dory's face, causing a nasigno. The smell of the blood excites the internal carnivorous of Bruce and, although still yet and call they try to stage an intervention by keeping him back, he chases Marlin and Dory seamlessly through the submarine, taking the mask in his Mouth in the process. During this time, Dory reveals that she can read human words before she and Marlin take refuge in a good torpedo. Dory releases the torpedo, which checks in Bruce's mouth, giving Marlin enough time to grab the mask and flee into the well. Bruce casts the torpedo away, and the anchor and I too are able to regain the attention of him over time before the torpedo destroys one of the mines, causing a violent chain reaction of explosions from others. Meanwhile, Nemo is placed in a new container revealed to be a fish tank in the dentist's office. There meets some of the original inhabitants, including inflating the flask fish, bubbles the yellow bar, fishing the star of the ocean sea, guffis the royal gram, Jacques the shrimps of the ench pacific cleaner and deeb a black-tail humbug that believes reflection To be his twin sister, Flo. A pelican called Nigel stretches on the window near the tank and greets Nemo after briefly discussing dental procedures with other fish. He escaped from the dentist showing Nemo a photo of his nephew, give it. He makes an announcement that he will be here Friday to choose Nemo. The other fish shudder and call a fish killer He would stop shaking the bag). Fear and wants to go home, Nemo moves away and remains locked in the filter suction tube. The other fish go to help him, but Gill, an essay and old Moorish idol with great scars on the right side, tells Nemo that he must escape himself, giving instructions and encouragement of Nemo. Nemo manages to free himself and fishing tells his of his To his ocean origins, like Gill. Marlin and Dory awake at the consequences of explosions to find the submarine hanging precariously beyond the edge of a deep ravine. Their movements cause the submarine suddenly aims and clashed with the opposite side rock wall. During chaos and temporarily blinded from dust, Dory accidentally drops the mask in the underlying darkness. Marlin gives him for lost but Dory takes him cheerfully in depth, telling him to continue swimming. After a moment, they arrive on a mysterious and seductive light that, unfortunately, belongs to a hungry fisherman. During pursuit, Marlin finds the mask and distracts the fisherman long enough so that Dory can read the written address on it. Marlin then leads the fisherman to the mask and trap using the mask strap like a bond. Dory Recites the address "P. Sherman 42 Wallaby Way, Sydney" and is ecstatic to find that you can remember it. In the fish tank, Nemo woke up by Jacques, which leads to the tank toy volcano, the mountain. Wannahockaloogie, where other fish perform an initiation to include Nemo in their club giving him the nickname "Shak Bait". Ghill then proposes a plan to escape the fish tank by blocking the filter, which would cause the tank to become so dirty that the dentist will have to clean it manually and place the fish in baggy on the counter, allowing them to pull out the window on the road. Cross it and land in the port. Although other fish are skeptical. Gill states that Nemo is little enough to adapt to the filter and return it through the tube. Nemo agrees to do so. Marlin and Dory continue their journey and require signs for Sydney from a Luna fish school. They say to Marlin and Dory to take the eastern Australian current (EAC) after an impressive view of their synchronized impressions. When they arrive in a rocky trench, Marlin resolves to swim about it to avoid the threatening custody. With the eac in sight, Dory becomes distracted and is pungent from a tiny jellyfish. While Marlin tends to her, they are suddenly surrounded by a bigger jellyfish school. Finding that the peaks do not pungle, Marlin and Dory bounce up of them as they run out of school. Marlin makes it before her and, when Dory doesn't appear, he goes back to recover it. He finds her the unconscious of her and unbridled by the pungent and from her struggles to take her out of her while she is repeatedly pungent. She does it but, pungent and exhausted, black out like a big shadow drops up of him. Nemo waits in the fish tank with Gill, which keeps an eye on the dentist for an appropriate time to jam the filter. Noting Nemo looking at the scars of him, Grill explains that he was landed on dental tools during his first escape attempt, although he was pointing for the bathroom. He says that all the exhausts lead to the ocean and that fish was not intended to live in a tank. Fishing screams that the dentist is going for a bath break that signaled Nemo to jump into the toxic filter chamber. Gill lays a pebble and instructions while Nemo check the fan, stopping the water flow. However, since it moves through the tube in the tank, pebble faults, and the fan lights up again, sucking nemo backwards towards the fans blades. The other fish hurry and sends Nemo a high piece of Kelp. Nemo separates a portion of the kelp, but grabs. Shaken, fishing asks Gill to not send Nemo again in the filter. Sullen and realizing the plan of him put Nemo in severe danger, Gill says they ended up. Meanwhile, Marlin wakes up to find themselves resting on the shell of a sea turtle that looks like a cooked. Incredulous, she discovers that she is also going along the eac with dozine Other sea turtles and large fish. Marlin is gathered with Dory who sports a scar from her from the jellyfish the bites and meets the son of cooked, sketch. Marlin also meets the lively son of the cooked, sketches. While playing with other sea turtles, Squirt is accidentally pushed out of the current. Marlin is panicked at the beginning at the beginning Crush convinces him that Squirt can handle himself. Squirt is able to swim the back street in the current and joins him father of Marlin cheerfully. Marlin sees that even the youngest among turtles can learn to survive in the ocean. Having been told to some details of their journey and meeting with jellyfish, squirt and other Hatchlings ask Marlin to tell them the rest of the story. Herdness at the beginning, he cedes Marlin and Nemo starts with when he was kidnapper. The story of him is not ignored; He has passed dolphin fish turtle for birds and forward to do it for the ears of no less than Nigel the pelican. Hearing the name of Nemo, which flies away to the dentist's office. There, Nemo tries to apologize to Gill for the failed escape attempt but Gill says that his desire to escape almost cost Nemo's life and that nothing must be worth it. Nigel arrives, crashed into the closed window, but retrieves and is able to tell Nemo the story of Marlin's journey as it was said to him. Renovated and reinvigorated, Nemo undertakes to try trying attempt by stopping the fan in the toxic chamber and, this time, succeeds. Marlin and Dory Continue along the AEC until they arrive at their exit point where Crush and Squirt show them where the main line departs. After a confusion didactic speech on "correct technique to exit" Squirt pushes them into the artificial channel of exit and again at the open sea. Crush thanking, Marlin asks for the turtle how old he has; Crush answers that of him is 150 years old and is still young. They are in charge of continuing through a large purplish Plankton plume in Sydney. However, soon they become solved lost and Dory to ask for a distant fish for directions. Although Marlin is afraid at first, he decides to trust Dory and she calls the distant figure. When she sees her a blue whale, she starts talking 'whale', asking for help. Marlin grows frustrated with his new just as a whale approaches from behind and pulls them in his mouth. He returns to the fish tub, a couple of days is worthless without filter made every surface covered with green algae. When the dentist sees this, he opts to clean the next morning tank before the arrival to give it. Nemo looks out of the window towards the outside of the harbor, wondering if his father is already there, waiting for him. In the mouth of whale, Marlin and Dory stay safe with enough water to swim. Although Dory is complacent, Marlin unnecessarily tries to get out of ramming in the whale fans. He screams asks Dory to claim to have spoken whale, calling her crazy and complaining the fact that he will never be revised her son of her. He looks for Dory to console him as the whale emits a call and the water in his mouth begins to flow. The whale then raises the tongue to push Marlin and Dory to the back of the throat, but Marlin refuses to let go until he assures him that everything will go well even if she doesn't know what happened. Finally, Marlin closes his eyes and released his grip on the whale tongue. They fall to the back of the throat, where I am going out of whale venting, landing in the port of Sydney. Happy to have finally arrived, Marlin sends his thanks to the whale and encourages Dory to help him find the boat he took Nemo. The following morning, Peach wakes up with the realization horrified from the fact that the tank is suddenly clean. The fish find that the dentist had installed a new high-tech filter talk prototype called the Aquascum 2003 the night before. The Aquascum 2003 scans the tank with the laser and tells the status. The water temperature is 82 degrees and the balance of the pH is normal. Even if I am impressed with the device's fluid functionality, they care about Which will do when giving it arrives. The dentist suddenly pulls Nemo in a fishing net, but Gill and other fish swim in it and educate Nemo to swim downwards, pulling the net into the tank and away from the taking of the dentist. Despite their efforts, Nemo is quickly quickly up in a plastic bag and set on the counter. The other fish tell Nemo to roll out the window but, before he can get far away, the dentist places the bags in a can to keep him from moving. Gill tries to ensure Nemo that he will be ok but, at that moment, give her crashed into the office. Marlin and Dory continue to look in the port, both tired of watching the boats all night when they are collected in the beak of a pelican. Pelican lands on a pier nearby and thanks them, but Marlin refuses to have arrived so far just to have breakfast. He stretches and Dory in the pelican neck, making him start suffocating. Nearby, Nigel wakes up from a nap to notice pelican, gerald, choking and flies to help. He hits Gerald in the back, expelling Marlin and Dory from his mouth on the pier, where Marlin screams that he needs to find Nemo. Recognizing the name, Nigel turns into gerald excited and tells him that this is the fish they have heard of. When he returns to Marlin, he sees him and Dory flops towards the end of the pier. Nigel chases them, but they are all forced to freeze when they notice that they are surrounded by hungry seagulls. When Nigel tells Marlin he knows him about him, Nemo, Marlin launches an excitement, sliding the seagulls forward, but Nigel manages to take Dory and Marlin in his mouth and fly away. Darla storms fish in the tank before going to see her uncle of her. While she picks up the bag with Nemo inside her, she notes Nemo Floating upside down. The other fish realize that Nemo is finally pretending death so that he can be blossomed down to the bathroom, but the dentist moves towards the basket can just be that Nigel arrives in the window. Marlin Forces Nigel in the office, terrorizing the dentist, give it and two other family members. Marlin sees Nemo who floats and believes him to be dead while the dentist grabs Nigel and violently forces him the window. Marlin calling towards Nemo. Listening to the name of him, Nemo opens upright, but give her takes the bag and starts to shake her, trying to "wake the fish". Gill stretches to the upper part of the mountain. Wannahockaloogie while the rest of the tank band pushes the volcano, and the strength of the bubbles pushes him from the tank. He lands on the head to give her, and the nemo bag descends on a table full of instruments, breaking the plastic. Gill falls from the head to give her next to Nemo. He uses a magnifying range as a catapult to overturn Nemo in the sink while he takes the secret exit by going down the drain. The dentist quickly puts the joint in the tank where he can breathe. Gill tells others not to worry about Nemo because all the exhausts lead to the ocean. Darla tries to find Nemo when the sink is misaligned and sprays the water in the face. Nemo travels through the secret exit until it reaches a water treatment filtration, a series of pipes traveling on the bottom of the sea outside the harbor. Nigel flies out from the harbor with Marlin and Dory and releases them in the water, offering him condolences. Shocked, Marlin thanks Dory to help him and start swimming away. He asks him to be with her and that the memory of her is better than her when she's around, that he doesn't want to forget. Marlin refuses and swims, leaving her alone. Nemo emerges from the pipes and calls for father of him. He finds Dory swimming confused under a buoy, saying she lost someone but does not remember. Nemo offers to search with her, and Dory is happily compliant, even if he doesn't recognize him. While swimming together, Dory arrives on a piece of piping and law "Sydney" on it. Suddenly, all the memories of her come back to her, and she rushes to Nemo, hugging him fiercely, before driving her towards Marlin. They discover that Marlin headed for fishing land and bring together with Among a large grouper school. The school of fish then cries panic as a great net from a fisherman over wrapped them. Dory is captured in the network, and Nemo says he must have inside and educate the fish of swimming. Although Marlin themes the security of Nemo, you let go and allow Nemo to do what it can. Marlin instructs panic fish from outside the network and all soon start swimming in synchronies. Fishermen investigate and realize that the network is pulled into the other direction. Dory, Nemo and the grouper push the net down until the boat is finally released, freeing all the fish. Marlin and Dory find Nemo under the heavy network - Marlin is struck by pain, believing that Nemo died. Nemo regain the conscience, and Marlin tells him kindly that he found out that marine turtles live to be 150 years old. Marlin and Nemo arrive at understanding, and all three come back to his house in the coral reef. Marlin's behavior has changed for the best, and is more optimistic and confident in Him's son's skills. He takes him to school, where Dory fell from Bruce, Anchor and Chum, which included Dory in their vegetarian program. Nemo embraces his father before leaving on another trip with Mr. Ray. Marlin looks at them, knowing that son of him is fine. Back to the Sydney Dentistic Office, the dentist idifies the high-tech filter, which suddenly stopped working despite him has a warranty free maintenance. He complains about having to clean the fish tank and put all the fish in bags but known that they mysteriously disappeared from the counter. The horns gem the window open while fishing is the last to cross the road and land in the port with other fish. While floating in their baggies, unable to escape the confinement, the boat asks: 'Now what?' In a post-credite scene, the small fish that was Chum's "friend" to the support group is chased by the fisherman. While the fisherman moves to swallow it, the small fish suddenly opens its huge mouth and swallows the fisherman. Cast More voices Production Inspiration for Nemo was established by multiple experiences. The idea dates back to when director Andrew Stanton was a child when he loved going to the dentist to see the fish tank, assuming the fish was from the ocean and wanted to go home. In 1992 he soon after him was born, he and the family of him made a trip to Six Flags Discovery Kingdom (which was called Marine World at that time). There, he saw the shark tube and various exhibitions that he felt that the submarine world could be done beautifully in the computer's animation. Later, in 1997 he took his son to take a walk in the park, but he found out that he was constantly protecting him and lost the opportunity to have any "father-son experience" on that day. In an interview with the national geographical journal, he stated that the idea for the characters of Marlin and Nemo came from a photograph of two clown fish peering from an anemone: "It was so arrested, I had no idea what kind of fish They were, but I couldn't take my eyes out of them. And as an entertainer, the fact that they were called rompers ... it was perfect. There is nothing more attractive than these little fish that want to play Peekaboo with you. "Also, the clown fish is very colorful and does not tend to get out of an anemone very often, and for a character who has to go to a dangerous journey. Stanton heard a clown fish was the perfect type of fish for the character. The pre-production of the film took place at the beginning of 1997. Stanton started writing the script during the post-production of a bug's life. As such, he started production with a complete script, something that co-director Lee Unkrich called "very unusual for an animated film". Artists took underwater diving lessons so you can study the coral reef. The idea for the initiation sequence came from one Historic between Andrew Stanton and Bob Peterson while driving to record actors. Ellen Degeneres was launched after Stanton was looking at Ellen with his wife and see Ellen "the subject change five times before finishing a phrase" as Stanton remembered. Stanton. It was a Pelican character known as Gerald (which in the final film ends up swallowing and suffocating Marlin and Dory) who originally was a friend of Nigel. They were going to play each other while Nigel was cleaned in annoying while Gerald is raucif and sloppy. However, the directors fail to find an appropriate scene for them that does not slow down the pace of the photo, so the character of Gerald was reduced to a minimum. Stanton itself provided the voice of crushing the marine turtle. Staton originally made the voice for the history of the history of the film and assumed that they would find an actor later. When Stanton's performance was popular in trial tests, Stanton has decided to keep him's performance in the film. Staton recorded all his dialogue while he lay on a sofa in the Lee Unkrich co-director's office. The son of Cotta Squirt was expressed by Nicholas Bird, the young son of the companion of Pixar Director Brad Bird Bird. Second Stanton, the elderly bird sounded a ribbon recording of his young son around Pixar Studios one day. Stanton felt the voice was "thump for this generation" and immediately thrown Nicholas. Megan Mully revealed that she originally was making a voice in the movie. According to Mullally, the producers were dissatisfied with learning that her character of her Karen Walker's character on the television show and Grace was not her natural her voice. The producers would rent it anyway, and then blamed him strongly to use her voice Karen Walker for her role. When they were refused, she was rejected. The film was dedicated to Glenn McQueen, a Pixar animator who died of melanoma in October 2002. Home Media Main article: find Nemo (video) Find Nemo was released on DVD and VHS on November 4, 2003.
