The first year is your hardest year to get through, especially Christmas. It gets easier after that and you find your groove. Survive year 1 and the rest is easy.Store Manager in Hood River, ORI devoted two years of my life for the company to fail my team and myself They only gave six weeks notice and reused to give me pto, sick pay I earnedGreat manager, very supportive and respectful. 100% committed to helping me succeed. DT could be organized better, not enough hours are given toget the job done.Assistant Manager in Tamarac, FLNo a great place to work overwhelmed I don't recommend this company to anyone. Bad payment rate for cashiers/ management. They work you to the bone never satisfied with your work. No acknowledgment for what you contribute to the company. Management/ District Management doesn't care for there workers. No bonus no nothing. Bad overall Easy hire, but beware!!!!!!!If you are a store manager the pay is ok, not great. They say you will work a 45 hour work week and more when it is Holiday season.. This is unrealistic. You will get a rundown store that you have to work 75 hours some weeks just to be open. They pay so low and expectations are so high that your employees will just quit on you. If you get a store that was because the Store Manager got promoted then you may have enough hours to run your store but you will have to have rock star staff. If you get a store that is run into the ground by last manager you are screwed. They will not re-evaluate hours for what the store should be run on they will just expect you to live there! So if this is your 1st Store Manager job and you want to work all the time and have no life to learn what you need then yeah. If you have knowledge of how to really budget and run a store don't bother you will hate your life.Help fellow job seekers by sharing your unique experience.People have asked 1.4K questions about working at Dollar Tree. If its all the scheduled hours you have and dont like, it probably cant change cause they make schedules 2 weeks in advance sometimes. usually its a 5 hour shift with alternating weekdays.See 72 answersI would work 5 hour shifts, sometimes 8 hour shifts if they asked me to stay longer when someone didn't show up. And i would work 4-5 days a week on averageSee 61 answersLike most retail jobs, the hour allowance is never set in stone unless you're full time because corporate gives stores an hour allowance to give out to employees weekly. It all depends on factors like how busy the store typically is that time of year or if there's a major reset coming up. Hours then are always crazy high. As a part time worker, I average 12-20 hours a week. During Christmas, I get 30+ .See 28 answersGreen shirt black or khaki bottomsSee 19 answersGreen polo and black or khaki pants. Uniform is not provided.See 13 answersYes u can wear a hat as long as it has the DT logo . My cashiers wear hats we purchased it on the website (same site where to get uniforms). the district manager was the one told us we can wear hat all day long as long as it's Dollar tree hat.See 11 answersInsights from 5.2K Indeed users who have interviewed with Dollar Tree within the last 5 years. Video Walkthrough Search Dollar Tree Jobs Available Positions Dollar Tree offers a wide range of jobs across numerous career fields. Traditionally, store jobs exist in customer service and leadership capacities. Customer service job titles include cashier, sales floor associate, and stocker positions. The discount retailer looks for friendly and dedicated new employees to fill store jobs. Management careers consist of district manager, store manager, and assistant store manager jobs and typically require past leadership and/or retail sales experience. In addition to in-store careers, the chain offers jobs in company distribution centers and corporate offices. Distribution center positions include warehouse associate, equipment operator, distribution center associate, and skilled maintenance associate roles. Professional workers looking for corporate careers may find positions in accounting, human resources, development, and IT. Job Benefits The retail chain offers lucrative work benefits packages to both part-time workers and full-time employees. Part-time team members receive medical coverage, basic preventative dental services, prescription drug plan coverage, life insurance, and health and dependent care reimbursement accounts. Full-time workers earn medical, dental, and vision plans, prescription drug coverage, long-term disability coverage, company-paid life insurance, and health and dependent care reimbursement accounts. Eligible Dollar Tree associates enjoy 401(k) retirement plans with 100% company match for the first 4% contributed. The retailer also offers employee stock purchase plans and company-funded profit sharing plans to qualified workers. Helpful Tips For Applying Applicants need to fill out the application with correct and up-to-date information. The resume serves as the most important part of applying for a Dollar Tree job. Anyone hoping to begin a career with the nationwide retail chain needs to submit a strong, well-crafted resume. Applicants must show strong work experience and skills matching the requirements for each desired job. Workers should ensure resume drafts remain free of spelling mistakes and grammar errors. How to Follow Up After Applying Online After completing and submitting the Dollar Tree application, wait a week before contacting the company. Check in with hiring managers via phone or email to inquire about application status. When contacting the dollar-store chain, thank the company for the opportunity to apply and show enthusiasm for the job. Keep the call or email brief and to the point. Conclude by asking any questions pertaining to employment or work environments.
