What questions will be asked in learners license test

Disclaimer: This test is only for public awareness. Though all efforts have been made to ensure the accuracy of the content, the same should not be construed as a statement of law or used for any legal purposes. This application accepts no responsibility in relation to the accuracy, completeness, usefulness or otherwise, of the contents. Users are advised to verify/check any information with the Transport Department. Taking the learner's test can be nerve-wracking. But it helps if you know what to expect. On the day of your learner licence test, you'll be directed to a computer and asked to answer 35 questions on the things you've learnt from the road code.The test is computerised, and multi-choice. Each question will have either two or four options. You just need to click on the answer you think is correct.Test questions are taken randomly from a bank of around 200, although there's a special system in place to ensure you don't get a bunch of similar questions. You don't have to worry about getting 30 questions on giving way, for example, but you'll definitely see a few.If you get at least 32 questions correct, you pass. Each time you answer a question, you'll be told whether you got the answer right or wrong, so you'll know how you're going.If you get fewer than 32 questions correct, or you show up late to your appointment, you'll have to book in to take the test again. You won't be able to take the test again straight away - you might have to come back several weeks later. You'll also have to pay the test fee again. Languages and reading difficultiesMany people with reading difficulties pass the learner's test with flying colours. If you're worried about this part of the test, you should talk to the driver licencing agent at the time you book your test.You may be able to get extra time to complete the theory test a helper who can read the test out for you If English is not your first language, you can apply to sit the learner test in one of the following languages:Arabic Chinese (simplified and traditional) Gujarati Hindi Korean Māori Punjabi Samoan Tongan To be applicable for driving on public roads in India, one must hold a valid driving license. The first step to get a driving license is to procure a learning license for which you need to pass a written test, either online or offline. The questions asked in the test will be in the form of a multiple-choice format, wherein applicants are required to choose only one option as a correct answer. When can you overtake on the left? When you want to go straight ahead & the driver in front of you has moved out & signalled that they intend to turn right. When you have signalled that you intend to turn left. When traffic in both lanes is moving slowly & traffic in the left-hand lane is moving more quickly than the traffic in the right-hand lane. What is meant by a solid white line in the centre of the road?You must stay to the left & must not cross the line unless it is for access or in an emergency. What does a broken yellow line mean?The road contains a hard shoulder which is normally only for pedestrians & cyclists but may be used briefly to allow faster traffic to overtake if it safe to do so. What does double broken white lines along the centre of the road mean?These alert the driver to continuous white lines a short distance ahead. You must not cross them unless it is safe to do so. At a stop sign that has no white line, where should you stop?You must stop at the sign. Where there is a continuous & a broken white line along the centre of the road, which one do you obey?You must obey the line that is nearest you. Who has priority at a roundabout?You must give right of way to traffic already on a roundabout. When driving, when should you dip your headlights? When meeting other traffic. When following close behind another vehicle. On continuously lit roads. In snow, fog, dusk/dawn. Generally, to avoid inconveniencing other traffic. What should you do if you are dazzled by another vehicle's headlights? Slow down & stop if necessary. Always watch for pedestrians or cyclists on the side of the road. If the dazzle is from an oncoming vehicle, avoid it by looking towards the left verge until the vehicle has passed. If the dazzle is from a vehicle behind you & reflected in your mirror, operate the night-driving mode on you mirror. What restrictions are there in relation to the use of the horn?Do not use a horn in a built-up area between 11.30pm & 7.00 am, unless there is a traffic emergency. Within what distance from the kerb should you park? Where should you not overtake?Near a bend, the brow of a hill, a hump back bridge, a continuous white line, where your vehicle would obstruct a sign, at an entrance, opposite another vehicle on a narrow road, a taxi rank. What is the sequence of traffic lights? What does a clearway mean?No parking during specified times or stopping unless you are waiting in a line of traffic. What rules apply to a box junction?You must not enter a yellow box junction unless you can clear it without stopping. An exception is when you want to turn right. You may enter while waiting for a gap in traffic coming from the opposite direction as long to do so would not block other traffic that has priority. What is the difference between a pelican crossing & a zebra crossing?A pelican crossing is controlled by lights. A zebra crossing has flashing orange beacons & is controlled by the presence of pedestrians. What does an island in the centre of a pedestrian crossing mean?Zebra crossings with a central island should be treated as two separate crossings. Pelican crossings that go straight across the road count as one crossing even if there is a central island. If Pelican crossings on either side of the central island are not in a straight line (staggered), they count as two separate crossings. What do the white zig-zag lines at a zebra crossing mean?No overtaking or parking. What is the speed limit on a) national roads (primary & secondary) & on b) motorways? What are the speed limits in built up areas?Usually 50km/h unless special speed limits apply to designated roads and zones. Special speed limits are generally 30km/h or 60km/h. What is the minimum tread depth on tyres?Most vehicles on the road must have a minimum tread depth of 1.6mm over their main treads. What are the rules regarding bus lanes?A with-flow bus lane runs in the same direction as the traffic beside it & can be used by bicyclists & taxis as well as buses & is reserved during the times shown on the information plate. A contra-flow bus lane is reserved only for buses, which means no other traffic may use it day or night. How far away should you park from a junction? What position would you take up for a right turn in a one-way street?When turning right from a one-way street, drive as close as you can to the right-hand side. What are hatched markings?Hatched markings are diagonal or chevron markings on the road that can be used for merging traffic, for diverging traffic & for separating traffic travelling in opposite directions (central median islands). If you see these markings on the road you must not enter the area they cover. What does a yield sign mean?If you see a Yield sign on the road, usually near a junction or roundabout, you must give way to traffic on a major road ahead or on the roundabout & you must not proceed unless it is safe to do so. An arrow light, green or amber, you may proceed in the direction of the arrow if it is safe to do so. You are approaching traffic lights & they change to amber, what action should you take?Stop unless it is unsafe to do so. What does a flashing amber traffic light mean?Proceed if the crossing is clear but pedestrians have priority. What do flashing red traffic lights mean? What does a continuous yellow line at the side of a road mean?No parking during certain hours. What do double continuous yellow lines at the side of the road mean? Give examples of where you would not parkNear a bend, the brow of a hill, a hump back bridge, opposite a single or continuous white line, where your vehicle would obstruct a sign, at an entrance, opposite another vehicle on a narrow road, a taxi rank, near a junction, at a bus stop, on a footpath. Within what distance from a pedestrian crossing, should you not park?15 metres before or 5 metres after. What procedure must you adopt if crossing a dual carriageway with a narrow central median?If the median is too narrow for your vehicle, you must wait until you can complete the crossing. What are the differences between a motorway and a dual carriageway?On motorways, exits to left only, no traffic lights, no junctions, no roundabouts, 120Kph speed limits may apply.
