After a formal consent to the ceremony saying à ¢ â, three times, which means à a € concluded and the couple leaves where the bride is bathed with coins, also called Savagah. Wedding is a special date in the life of a bride and groom. This ceremony has the name due to the color of the dress of a bride (American wedding para.1). White wedding has its traditions and takes a special place in American culture. Analysis One of the most important and widely known symbols of a wedding traditions paragraph 15). However, in time, the color of the dress has become less important. In the 20th century, brides began to choose clothes in different colors: blue, gray, silver, yellow, brown and black. The style of a dress usually represents popular tendencies of current horizeans. The tradition to accompany a bride for her father is also popular. This means that a father presents his daughter as a pure virgin for his future husband. It also means the process of the adoption of the father of the choice of his and bless the union. This tradition also has religious roots (Christian wedding traditions for. 14). This is That a wedding is more the day of the bride and that the only responsibility of the groom is to say A â € co I do not do it at the appropriate time. However, it is not entirely true. Traditional white wedding has a certain groom's duties. In particular, the groom has to make particular efforts to marry the right to also important for a man, and he has certain responsibilities and traditional patterns. According to homosexual marriage, it could be religious and civil. It is estimated that gay couples have a simpler relationship with marriage, and civil. It is estimated that gay couples have a simpler relationship with marriage, it could be religious and civil. ceremony are similar for homosexual and heterosexual marriage (Daly and Long 75). Same-sex wedding is more often a civil ceremony than a religious. It could be explained by the long-term history of religious intolerance for homosexual people. However, the Christian church allowed the same sex marriage, and the couples have the opportunity to marry religiously (Hall 15). Conclusion It can be concluded that marriage symbolizes the sacred unity of a bride and a groom. Historically, marriage was intimately associated with religious beliefs, while today this ceremony could be civil and religious. Nowadays, heterosexual marriages are generally similar.
